HAWKS BACK WITH TWO NEW RECORDS

Paris to London Mark Latest Air Dash to Bewilder Europe.

I got over and headed for Rome in a driving rain. To dodge the storm I hit for the Italian coast. When the captain started out yesterday his idea was to have lunch in Rome and come back here for dinner last night with the London Aero club, but his fuel ran out and he landed at Polly-Les-Gien, about 85 miles south of Paris.

Speedy Trip to Paris
He stayed there over night and this morning hopped into Paris in 24 minutes. The French flyer at Le Bourget just received word of his take-off when he dropped down on the field.

He didn't make his one-day round trip, but he's going to try again before he goes home. Mrs. Hawks was waiting for him here and she broke into a smile when the familiar monoplane came into sight. "I know Frank is able to take care of himself," she said, "but I'm never really happy until I see his wheels on the ground. He takes great delight in these flights and this one is his way of spending part of his vacation in England."

Disastrous Blaze Hits Town in Pennsylvania

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 23.—An entire business block in the town of Yukon near here lay in ruins today after a disastrous fire. The fire started in the Lyric theater at the time got to the street safely. A billiard room, a barber shop, a residence, a drug store and a general store were destroyed. Loss was estimated at $100,000.

Missing Chicagoan Found in Water Logged Sloop

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, April 23.—The body of William Kegg, 26, an insurance inspector of Chicago, missing since Saturday when he set sail from South Haven, Mich., in a 20-foot sloop, was taken from Lake Michigan yesterday.

Kegg, an employee of the Lumberman's Mutual Insurance association of Mansfield, O., bought the sloop last week and went to South Haven to sail it home, Saturday. He did not expect to reach here until Sunday. His friends did not become alarmed until Tuesday when a general search was started. The body was found near the water logged craft, three miles off South Chicago harbor.

CLARA BOW BACK IN SPOTLIGHT OF NEWS

Purported True Story of Star's Life After Coast Paper.

By The Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 23.—Arrested on federal indictment charging him with sending obscene articles about Clara Bow through the mails, Fred H. Girna, weekly newspaper publisher, was held in the county jail today in default of $10,000 bail.

Rex Bell, the actress' friend, told officers two men known to him only as Jordan and Rockwell prior to publication of the articles had presented a plan to him whereby the stories could have been suppressed. Bell said Jordan and Rockwell had suggested that Girna's paper, the Coast Reporter, could be bought for $25,000. They said they would put up $15,000 if Bell could raise $10,000.

The articles about Miss Bow ran in four issues and were preceded by publication of a purported affidavit hearing the signature of Daisy De Bow, saying she had agreed to give Girna a "true and honest story."

Miss De Bow, who was convicted of stealing an $825 coat from the actress, denied through her attorney she had made an affidavit in writing to Girna, although she said she had given him legal authority to publish a story of her life with Clara Bow.

Miss De Bow was given 18 months probationary jail sentence and is now at liberty under bond pending action on her appeal.

Girna denied knowing anything about the asserted proposal of Jordan and Rockwell, who are sought for questioning.

PRES. HOOVER GIVEN ECONOMICAL LUNCH

Girl Scouts Prepare Meal for Executive at Cost of 23 Cents.

been instructed to serve the President first with Shirley Schaefer, small Girl Scout daughter of Representative Schaefer of Wisconsin, waiting to place the foot before Mrs. Hoover just a second later.

Purpose of Meal
The primary purpose of the low cost meal was the launching of better homes week. But there entered also the thought of a menu appropriate for an average American home whose income may, perhaps have been impaired in the general depression.

The bureau of home economics and the President's emergency committee for employment worked out the menu. Girl Scouts cooked it. The President's place was at the head of the table in the biggest chair in the Girl Scout little house. Across the table was a seat for Mrs. Hoover, ever at home in the little house, purchased by her and furnished under her guidance for the young girls to whom she is devoted.

Other guests for the meal were: Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, of the President's unemployment committee; Agriculture Secretary Hyde, Hoover's successor as national president of better homes movement; Dr. James Ford, executive secretary, and Mrs. William Brown Meloney, board member, better homes; Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, chairman of the Girl Scout board, and Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the bureau of home economics.

29 DEAD LISTED IN HONDURAN CLASHES

Government Reports Important Victories in Yesterday's Fighting.

By The Associated Press
TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 23.—The government today claimed important victories against revolutionary armies in northern Honduras. Heavy fighting continued near Chameleco, not far from San Pedro Sula, and reinforcements were rushed to aid the regulars.

A total of 29 dead and many wounded was counted in yesterday's fighting in several minor engagements, but so fierce was the battle being fought in the San Pedro Sula area that it was impossible to estimate the casualties there.

The battle at Chameleco, which has for its prize the railway key point at San Pedro Sula, between Tegucigalpa and the coast, began Tuesday night. Government forces repelled an attack on the town and there was a lull, but the attack was renewed yesterday.

Latest word from the area said that the government troops were holding the rebels but aid was asked and troops were rushed to the regulars' assistance.

Investigates Preston's Application for Pardon

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Assistant State Welfare Director W. A. Kennedy today went to Mansfield reformatory to investigate the case of Frank Preston, 30, returned to the prison last week from St. Louis after 13 years of freedom.

An application for a pardon for Preston, who escaped after serving a part of a sentence for robbery, was filed with Governor White yesterday by St. Louis friends and the governor ordered Kennedy to investigate the case.

Since his escape Preston had married and set himself up in the restaurant business in St. Louis.

AMERICAN RIVAL TO MONTE CARLO

GOV. FRED BALZAR

A SCENE IN THE BANK CLUB, RENO GAMBLING RESORT

RENO'S MAIN STREET.

MAYOR E. E. ROBERTS

By International News Service.
RENO, Nev.—Back to the good old days—This is the slogan in the wild free Sagebrush state. A few hours after Gov. Fred B. Balzar had signed a bill dealing a death blow to modern reformers and making gambling legal, aged Nevadans sighed happily, as they listened to the hum of the chuck-luck machine. "Just like the good old days," they murmured, as they watched the faro dealer rake in and pay out bets in the $50 limit games, and cast eyes alight with memory of other days at the sign "The Game Never Closes."

The presence of Mayor E. E. Roberts, a picturesque survivor of the "Old West," made everything official. It was no new story to him, for he is a Nevadan—a Nevadan of the wide open days of old.

British Air Defense Commander Killed

By The Associated Press
SEAHAURST, PARK, SUSSEX, England, April 23.—Vice Air Marshal Felton Vesey Holt, commander of the air defenses of Great Britain, was killed today in an airplane collision. His pilot, Flight Lieutenant Henry Moody, also was killed, but the occupant of the other plane escaped injury.

Vice Marshal Holt was one of the pioneers of the royal air force and had received the distinguished service order for valor.

Views Training Site

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, O., April 23.—Across the Ohio border, today appeared the likely training site for W. L. "Young" Stribling, who will battle Max Schmeling for the heavyweight championship July 3.

"Young" Stribling inspected the place yesterday and was ostensibly satisfied with the facilities, which include a landing field for Young Stribling's plane.

RENO, that happy Mecca for dissolution of galling matrimonial chains, is going to be a regular little Monte Carlo, with a bank to break and everything.

There's something else nice that's going to happen in Nevada also. When the bands of matrimonial bliss turn into bonds, heretofore it was necessary to spend three months here to get a divorce—not any more.

This is another bill that has just been passed by the Nevada legislature. It provides that if you want a divorce all you have to do is buy a ticket to Nevada and live six weeks in the state. Not necessarily here, Carson City, Elko, Carlin or anywhere in the state will do equally well.

Never Let A Cough Hang—It's Dangerous Comparison

Bronchiline Stops Them With Amazing Speed—Is Guaranteed—65 Cents a Bottle.

When nothing seems to do it, coughing, bothersome cough any good just go to Henney & Cooper and get a 65 cent bottle of Bronchiline Emulsion. Take it as directed and notice how easily it overcomes that persistent cough that has caused you many sleepless nights. It's a medicine compounded for the purpose of conquering tough hang-on coughs, and that's exactly what it does—quickly and thoroughly. There is no dope in Bronchiline Emulsion, nor chloroform, sugar—such things are only shifts and should be taken with greatest caution. For ordinary simple coughs or three doses of Bronchiline Emulsion are usually enough. Remember this: If it does not, the most stubborn cough, then anything you ever get money back—Adv.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile—Without Calomel
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel tired and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of rice, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a sore movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have aitch, bad taste and your breath is foul. Side often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes three good, old CARTERS' LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel up and out. They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes.

"How do you get him to chew his food?"

"I give him Shredded Wheat and it's so crisp he has to chew it—the more he chews it the better he likes it and the more nutriment he gets out of it. Many children bolt down their food without chewing—that means imperfect digestion, poor teeth and unhealthy gums. Shredded Wheat with milk makes a perfect food for growing children, and it's perfectly delicious with bananas or stewed fruit."

ENJOY A MODERN GAS RANGE!

Take Advantage of This Big Spring Saving!

Here is a real opportunity to put the proper finishing touch to Spring house cleaning by installing a beautiful, new gas range in the kitchen—and at a very substantial saving in cost. As a special Spring feature, we are offering a number of modern, cabinet gas ranges at greatly reduced prices. Our special offer will be for a very limited period.

You Can Save From $22 to $39 Per Range

POPULAR MODELS

Included in the stock offered at unusually low prices are popular models of Direct Action and Eriez cabinet ranges. These ranges are of beautiful design, most of them are in full enamel, and they embody many modern features, such as oven heat control, concealed manifold, roomy cooking top, utility drawer, improved burners and other refinements that add to the joy of cooking and enhance the beauty of the kitchen.

Convenient TERMS

You may purchase the range of your choice on our convenient payment plan. A down payment of only $8 may be made, and the balance paid in 12 monthly installments with your gas bill.

COME IN

It will be to your advantage to come to our display room and inspect these ranges, investigate their numerous features that are appreciated by every housewife—and note the unusual saving in price. Both the Direct Action and Eriez lines are well-known to Marion housewives, as are, also, the efficiency, durability and beauty of these ranges. Be sure to come in at your earliest opportunity—you'll find the range YOU want.

ACT NOW!

Remember—this offer is for a very brief period. Act promptly—and save!

FALSE TEETH

Can Not Embarrass Most wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their teeth dropped or slipped at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little Fasteech on your plates. Make false teeth stay in place and feel comfortable. Sweetens breath. Get Fasteech at Henney & Cooper's or any other good drug store.—Adv.

Arthur Brisbane's Today

6:30 a. m., reached Rome at 11:30 stayed for lunch, left Rome at 1:42 p. m., and passed a leaky gas pipe, landed 55 miles south of Paris at 4 p. m. He will go on to London today.

Landing in Rome, he remarked that it was a "trip over the Alps." He had to go up 13,000 feet. He used the plane in which he made his transatlantic record in this country and is now our champion flier.

If this nation ever gets an adequate air fleet it will have no difficulty in finding first-class pilots. And after it gets the fleet plus an adequate submarine fleet it will have no difficulty with foreign nations. They will leave us alone.

WE DECIDE to recognize the new government of Spain. Our ambassador at Madrid made a polite bow at the Spanish foreign office yesterday. Nobody knows how long the new republic will stand, and nobody knew how long our republic would stand when we invited King George out of the country. The least it seems that one republic can do is to recognize another and try to look happy about it.

Marion Persons at Caledonia Meeting

Mrs. Roop will lead services in which the Caledonia union presents the Caledonia school with a framed copy of the Ten Commandments. Talks will be given by each member in the Marion delegation.

Dyeing the Eyebrows Is "It" New Spring Fashion Declares

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

SINCE the practice of dyeing and shaping the eyebrows is becoming more popular each day I think we'll have a series of articles explaining just how this work is done. New modes and methods have been developed since last we discussed the subject here and I know you are anxious to learn all about the artful practices which go to make up this branch of beauty culture.

Severe articles will be devoted to shaping and dyeing the eyebrows and I do wish you would save them as they appear, so that, at the completion of the series, you will have all the available information you are apt to need for beautifying your own eyebrows and lashes.

Don't fear that shaving or tweezing the eyebrows will encourage a heavier and closer growth. It won't. Therefore, your only problem in shaping the eyebrows is finding the lines most becoming to you.

Before going into actual shaping, however, I want to make a few suggestions for the removal of unnecessary hairs from the brow line, for it is important that infection and soreness be avoided.

Most beauty shops favor a specially constructed razor for the shaping of the eyebrows. Those of you who prefer to do your own shaping, however, probably will find the tweezers easier to handle.

It is necessary that the exact line of the eyebrows be determined before removal of hairs is begun and this is best done by brushing the brows.

Regardless of the shape or condition of your brows at the time, brush them upward till each hair is pointing toward the top of the head. Then run the edge of your brush lightly along the top of the brows, beginning at the bridge of the nose and drawing the brush out to the ends. This is the very best method for brushing the brows and arranging the hairs in their natural positions. Many women find that an entirely new and lovely brow line is achieved by this simple treatment, making additional shaping unnecessary.

When using the tweezers it is important that each hair be plucked out in the direction it grows. This is another reason why the correct brushing of the brows is important, for it enables you to see at a glance just how to pull the hair out. The careless removal of hairs, where no attention is paid to the direction of their growth, frequently breaks the skin and makes a perfect setting for infection.

Before plucking the brows, however, two or three very hot towels to them. This helps to open the pores a little, making removal easier and more comfortable. The tweezers should be dipped in alcohol before they are used and again after the removal of two or three hairs. This insures cleanliness, which is important.

Wild hairs which are found in the line you wish to retain and not in the area which is to be cleared, should not be plucked out, as this leaves a tiny white spot in the brows resembling a freckle. Such hairs should be trimmed with the scissors until it blends with the general mass of hair forming the brows.

In our next article we will begin the discussion of modes for the eyebrows. Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

ITCHING ENDS WHEN ZEMO TOUCHES SKIN

—thousands say. It's wonderful the way soothing, cooling Zemo brings relief to skin which itches and burns. Even in most severe cases, itching disappears almost as soon as Zemo touches the tender and inflamed surface. To draw out local infection and help to clear away unsightly blemishes, we know of nothing better than invisible Zemo. Always keep this family antipruritic on hand. Use it freely. It's what you can be. 35c, 60c and $1.00. All dealers.—Adv.

Let Konjola, The Medicine of 22 Roots and Herbs, Prove Its Powers

Some idea of Konjola's merit can be had from the experience of Mr. Charles G. Bowers, 149 Barron avenue, Johnstown, Pa. He says: "Konjola freed me from the pain and misery of rheumatism. This ailment handicapped me in my hips and knees for years. My kidneys and bowels were weak. Konjola seemed to attack the source of my ailments. Today I am free from rheumatism and my stomach is in excellent condition. I am in good health for the first time in years."

Now read what Mrs. Evelyn R. Chase, Hillen-Jale, near Baltimore, says of Konjola: "I suffered frightfully from indigestion, with gas, floating and misery. The first bottle made me feel like another person. Today I am free from indigestion, my nerves are calm and I sleep well. I am glad to tell this about Konjola."

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge seeks Lillian's advice. "There is never any use of my trying to mask my feelings," she said. "She knows every line of my face, every expression of my eyes, every intonation of my voice, as I know hers, through long and close association with her. So I was not surprised to see her glance at me with apparent carelessness but in reality with keen scrutiny as she answered my question."

"Yes, we posted a number of letters among them one which Mary brought down. She said your door was open, and that the letter was in the little rack in which you always keep your letters for the post. It was all addressed, stamped and sealed. I hesitated for a second or two, wondering if I ought to awaken you and ask you about it. But you were sleeping so soundly, and Katherine had told me the awful punishments she meant to inflict upon anyone who dared to disturb you. Flaying alive I believe was the most merciful."

Madge asks counsel. "Ugh!" Her husband gave an ostentatious shiver, and rose from the chair where he had been luxuriatingly stretching his big body. "This is getting a bit too gruesome for me. I'll just step out and see how the bodyguard is getting on."

His wife looked after him affectionately. "He's about as obvious as a hippopotamus feeding," she said with a laugh. "But he's a darling to get on the way so quickly. Now what's wrong? Didn't you want the letter mailed?"

"I hesitated, then took a swift decision. I needed Lillian's counsel."

"I did when I wrote it," I said. "I changed my mind decidedly."

Lillian grinned in gamin-like fashion. "You generally hang-dog appearance blinks strongly at our little something of a mess. Anybody can do it."

"I can listen while I tell you," I said.

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

(Copyright, 1931, Jessie Douglas Fox)

SYNOPSIS: The restless life of the unsuccessful artist, Julian Lake, has deprived his motherless daughter, Nora, of the home and stability she craves. So she tells him in opposing his decision to desert the Italian villa they are occupying rent-free. Her dismay when he urges her to wed the painter, Nicholas Thayer, their guest, heightens her dislike for this man, a brother of the Jonathan Thayer whose charm for her has lasted since a meeting five years before. Nicholas disdains her by abruptly revealing his plan to leave their house, but she is moved to pity when he cuts his hand painfully opening the blind. Telling herself she never wants to see him again, she is nevertheless troubled as he packs his things to depart.

CHAPTER 4 A Young Diana

DESPITE her feeling against Nicholas Thayer, Nora stood thoughtful for a moment considering the nasty gash beneath his thumb. Then she went over to the desk and began to write with a creaking pen.

"Have that cut looked after!"

She stuck the piece of paper to the slim balustrade where he would be sure to see it as he left.

Then she caught up her hat and crushed it down over her hair. She let herself out through the rusty gate on to the winding road that led down into Florence.

Perhaps if she walked very fast, Nora thought, she could forget Nicholas Thayer.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TOMORROW will be Friday, and then it will be Saturday, and a week from tomorrow will be the first of May, and after that it is only a month till vacation, and we have got to start practicing swimming no matter how cold the water is if we are going to be good swimmers again by the time school lets out. A fellow don't ever forget how to swim, but he ought to keep in practice.

After I had let Jubilee down and me and him was out in the barn and I was milking the dummed brutes and he was getting up with his mouth open begging for a few squirts of milk, the bunch came in. And Younless and Feeble and Maggie were with them, and they hadn't went in the house like they do when the mornings are cold, and when the Lost Bag of Tripe came in Feeble asked him what his father done to him for spoiling my mother's roses, and he said if he was to show her she would be surprised. She pointed the pitchfork at him and said he would be surpriseder than she would. She said if he had been her brother when her father got through with him he would be striped like a zebra. He said he was already striped like two zebras. He said he had no idea that women was so silly about flowers. They are something that just grows and there will be roses all summer. Then Feeble said to me, "Why, Thomas Aristides, I am surprised that you should let him call your mother silly," and that was the first that I had noticed that he did. I got up with my pail of milk in my hand and started for him, and just as I started for him and he made a jump for the door. Red picked up the barn pail and hit him between the shoulders with all that was in it, and the Lost Bag of Tripe ran in our kitchen and told my mother I had flung a bucket of milk all over him.

When my mother came out to the barn and him with her, I was working on the other cow, and she said: "Thomas Aristides, did you throw a bucket of milk on Henry?" I looked surprised and said "No mom," and she looked in the pail and seen that all the milk was there, and she said, "What did you throw on him?" and they all told her I didn't throw a thing on him. Then she wanted to know what made him so wet, and Feeble told her that he perspired off easy. My mother told him he had better watch out or he would set his clothes afire sometime. I could see that she didn't know what had happened to him but whatever it was she was glad of it. I would hate to be the kind of a fellow that the whole neighborhood would be glad when anything happened to me.

We went out to the river after school and Banty took his shoe off and stuck his foot in the water and said it was too cold to go swimming. A fellow ought to be all over to try the water right. Banty must be getting to be a sissy.

cholas Thayer. But Florence was made for loitering and she found herself wandering along the pavements of the Lungarno, stopping to lean on the parapet to watch the fishermen holding their long nets.

But this morning nothing pleased her. She kept remembering the way Nicholas Thayer had looked at her with a pity that made her angry now as she remembered it, a faint, contemptuous smile that enraged her. She wondered what had made her tell him about the rectory; and she felt her cheeks flame at the memory.

Two American girls came walking briskly along the Lungarno. Nora watched them covertly, dragging her bare feet on at a more dashing angle. But they did not even glance at her. Their smart traveling clothes put her to shame. She looked down at her stubbed slipper, at the blue skirt and coat she had slept in more than once. She tried to console herself by thinking that they would never know her secret haunts in the hills nor the old monastery where she had chatted with the Franciscan friar. All the small adventures that, until lately, had been the very spice of life.

She spent part of the lire note recklessly on violets with the dew still on them, and loitered up one long twisting street, and down another as narrow.

But this morning she could draw no solace from the blessed cherubs of Della Robbia with their glistening smiles.

Something was troubling her and at last she dragged it up into the light. Her father was planning something but with more perspicacity than he usually possessed. Why else had he asked Nicholas Thayer to visit them? Why was he away all afternoon long, and why was he so scrupulously brushed and groomed, swinging down the hill with his ash walking stick to return long past midnight? How did anyone ever know another person, Nora thought, how divine the motives and strange desires that drove him on?

She stopped at a pastry shop and drank vermouth and ate a small pate; she found she was a few centesimi short. This was the wretched ending of such a morning. She could see with what delight the proprietor would dramatize the scene—and she shuddered. It would be so easy to laugh about it afterwards with her father, but at the moment

She looked desperately about and saw a slim fair woman approaching along the Tournabuoni. She had never seen Mrs. Nevers before with such real pleasure.

"You've saved my life," she laughed. "I've run up a bill in the pastry shop and I can't pay for it. Oh, one lira will be loads."

Mrs. Nevers went in and settled the small total at the desk, then she stood beside Nora's table a moment.

She was a fair woman, thin almost to attenuation, dressed with elegance. She was one of those smart unsatisfied women that Nora had met before, always eager for any new sensation. She suggested a Venetian goblet that might hold nothing more dangerous than acid white wine.

The long gold earrings that she always wore, clashed on her pale cheeks as she talked.

"But you came back sooner than you expected," Nora asked, her heart sinking as she realized that the tenure of the Villa Diana was over.

"I was so bored," Mrs. Nevers smiled. "You make me feel quite diminutive. What a long-legged creature you are!" she said, eyeing Nora coolly. "A young Diana!"

But it was said with a twist of the lips as though Diana were a rangy uncouth young woman who might better roam her fields than venture into city streets.

"I'll tell Julia. And you shall have the villa at once."

"No, I wouldn't think of disturbing you," Mrs. Nevers said. "How is your father? Working. I suppose at his wonderful pictures."

Nora felt her cheeks begin to redden. She could see her father lying in bed, smoking incessantly as he turned the pages of "Don Quixote."

"I wonder if you appreciate my dear, how lucky you are to have such a charming man for a near relation?"

Nora knew that Helen Nevers did not like her. Mrs. Nevers could never like anyone younger or fresher than herself, she longed to revenge herself on any girl for her own lost youth.

Nora decided she must tell her father. Mrs. Nevers had returned. And she was afraid. She was afraid of their future, afraid of her father's secret plans. There was only one way that Nora knew of outwitting fear and that was to plunge recklessly toward it. She went in through the gate of the villa some 20 minutes later and pushed open the door. How silent the whole place was! Its loneliness pressed against her heart. The salon was ablaze with sun. Nicholas Thayer was walking up and down. His face looked flushed and feverish and he brought his eyes to her as though she were a stranger.

"What's the matter?" she asked. "It's my beauty hand."

"Let me see it," she demanded. "There's nothing to see," he laughed, "but its been acting up like the deuce."

Buying...

with YOUR EYES OPEN!

MANY of the products that greet you from shelf and counter today bear familiar names.

Names you know by their advertising. By their reputation. Or by personal experience. They seem like old friends.

Other products are strangers.

What do you know about them?

Often their appeal is a "bargain price." But are they always bargains?

Their labels are attractive. More inviting, sometimes, than those of the products they seek to imitate. But how can you ever know what these labels conceal?

Remember this every time you buy—Before there can be an imitation, there must be something worth imitating.

Have you ever seen an imitation as good as the original?

Clerks who try slyly to sell you something "just as good" are looking only to today. Tomorrow the same product may not be on the shelf. Perhaps even today the clerk does not know who made it.

Ask yourself... "Why does he offer me this substitute? Why does he urge me to accept this or that product instead of the one I want?"

There are many reasons. Most of them selfish. Certainly, none of them springs from the desire to serve you better.

These facts are published by this newspaper to tell you of your danger. To protect you against substitution. To warn you to buy with your eyes open.

No deserving product ever needs the claim, "just as good." When you hear those words, you may know there is something better.

And that package which "holds a little more" often holds little more than disappointment.

There is only one sure way for any shopper to avoid substitution.

Ask for recognized brands. Ask for them by name. Accept no questionable imitations.

"NO"

BROADWAY COMEDY, "TOP SPEED" COMES TO THE OHIO FRIDAY

Joe Brown Plays Lead Role with Bernice Claire Opposite.

BY HALLIE HOUCK
JOE BROWN goes into "Top Speed" at the Ohio Friday and Saturday, with Bernice Claire as the reason for all the hurry.

"Top Speed" was one of Broadway's successful shows last season. Speed-boat races and comedy line-up situations had been added to the speedy action of the original show.

Brown won a long term contract with First National for his clever characterization of Connie, the Grand Duke in "Sally" and his first role under the new agreement is one of his biggest yet.

At Dublin and Joe Burke, popular song writing combination, collaborated on four songs for the picture. The numbers are "Looking for the Loveliest in the Dark," "If I Was a Traveling Salesman and You Were a Chambermaid," "Knock Knees" and "If I Have You."

Jack Whiting, the leading man, is the stepfather of Douglas Fairbanks Jr., though the two young men are of about the same age, both in their early twenties. Mr. Whiting married the first Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks in New York City last year.

WARNER OLAND AT MARION
Warner Oland is back at his old tricks again in "The Drums of Jeopardy" at the Marion Friday and Saturday. June Collyer and Lloyd Hughes play important roles with Oland.

George Fawcett one of the best of the character actors, was slated for the life of a Virginia gentleman.

men with plantation property as his main interest in life, but he chose to be an actor and became a member of a Baltimore stock company after a brilliant career at the University of Virginia. He played three seasons with Maud Adams later, and had several seasons in London. He entered pictures in 1914.

Harold MacGrath wrote the thriller, "Drums of Jeopardy." The book was filled with shivers and thrills. Oland is a demon who pursues Hughes and Fawcett with an insatiable thirst for their blood. Oland is a clever scientist who knows all about poisons and he always sends a notice of his intention to kill—that is where the title comes in. Drums of Jeopardy are the ruby-studded drums in the arm of an East Indian drummer that were once attached to a necklace and now in Oland's possession.

The story has the makings of a real murder-mystery picture.

MARY ASTOR PLAYS LEADING ROLE IN PICTURE AT MARION

"Behind Office Doors" Provides Good Entertainment for Evening.

"BEHIND Office Doors" at the Marion tonight is a nice little picture that doesn't rise to great heights, but makes an engaging evening's entertainment.

Mary Astor is an office girl in love with Robert Ames, and with Ricardo Cortez in love with her. She is in a position in her office to give Ames a start to the head of the business. She does, only to watch him falling for other girls without even a glance in her direction. Drink soon brings the business down around his ears, and when it is on the verge of collapse, Ames begins to realize that Miss Astor is the reason for its former success and things straighten out for both of them.

MINISTERS PLEDGE DRY LAW SUPPORT

Resolution Upholding Eighteenth Amendment Passed as Session Ends.

Resolutions pledging support to the Eighteenth amendment and to the Ministerial Institute were adopted by the Sandusky Conference Ministerial Institute and Bible conference yesterday afternoon at the close of a two-day meeting at First United Brethren church. Portage was selected for the 1932 institute and conference.

Continental and Elida also asked for the meeting. Several of the more than 60 United Brethren ministers from north central Ohio remained overnight and attended services last night at which Rev. J. H. Patterson of Marion spoke on "Grieve Not the Holy Spirit of God." Rev. Guy Chapin, formerly of Marion and at one time superintendent of the local U. B. Sunday school is pastor of the Portage U. B. church at which the institute will be held next year. Address were given yesterday afternoon by Rev. R. R. Riley of Willard on "Prayer" and Dr. C. E. Ashcraft, dean of the Bonebrake Theological seminary at Dayton on "Philosophy of Christian Education as Related to the Church."

Teams with Strong Mound Staffs Lead Baseball Race

CARD HURLERS GIVE UP ONLY 19 RUNS IN SEVEN CONTESTS

Cleveland Takes It on the Chin from Chisox 10-2:

A's Beat Solons.

BY GAYLOR TALBOT, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

There still is nothing that quite takes the place of old-fashioned, airtight pitching when it comes to winning ball games.

In seven games the St. Louis Cardinals great mound staff has allowed only 19 runs, and the Boston Braves surprisingly stout staff has given up only 22 scores in nine tilts. Yankee moundsmen have held opponents to 29 runs in eight games.

By way of contrast, only one member of the Philadelphia Nationals' staff, Jim Elliott, has managed to go the route in nine games.

Old Tom Zachary became the third Braves hurler to start and finish in as many days when he set the hapless Brooklyn Robins down with four scattered hits yesterday and blanked them, 4 to 0.

Two Card pitchers, Sylvester Johnson and Jim Lindsey, gave a similar masterpiece in beating the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 2. They allowed only four hits, and not a Red was left on base.

Although the Yankees increased their advantage over Washington and Cleveland by rimming the Boston Red Sox 7 to 5, there was little satisfaction in the victory. Babe Ruth was injured, going after a fly in the sixth inning and there was a possibility he would be out several weeks.

A three-run spurge in the seventh, touched off by Hughie Critt's home run, enabled the Giants to nose out the Phillies, 5 to 4, in their debut at the Polo Grounds.

The Athletics gave Lefty Grove a four-run lead in the first inning, and that was sufficient. He beat Washington, 5 to 1. Joe Cronin's homerun in the second depriving him of a shutout.

Pat Caraway was invincible after the second inning and the Chicago White Sox opened before the home folks with a 10 to 2 win over Cleveland.

Rain kept the Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates apart, and wet grounds prevented the scheduled Tiger-Brown skirmish at Detroit.

"Bargain Days" Loom as 9 Games Are Postponed

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS CHICAGO, April 23—Just when American Association club owners were beginning to believe they had beaten their early-season bad weather jinx, up it popped and tossed nine games into the double-header list in three days.

The single game played yesterday was won by the Louisville Colonels, 8 to 7 over Kansas City, in the tenth inning. With the bases loaded, Billy Bayne, Kansas City hurler, hit Herman Layne, forcing in Ganzel with the winning run.

A GIRL CATCHER

Vada Corbus, 19-year-old baseball player has been signed as a catcher by the Western association baseball club of Joplin, Mo. Miss Corbus is the second girl player to be signed this year in professional baseball. A Tennessee club recently signed a girl pitcher. What a battery the two would make.

ADVANCE GUARD OF AMATEURS ARRIVE IN N. Y. FOR TOURNEY

Hawaiian Startles A. A. U. Officials by Working-Out Without Shoes.

BY EDWARD J. NEIL Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, April 23—Father Knickerbocker, about to get his first peek at the national amateur boxing championships in 26 years, is blinking already at some of the sights the winning youngsters are bringing to town.

The advance guard of the 162 amateurs who take the four straight nights of leather slinging next Monday night already are taking in the sights. They are coming from 20 states from the army headquarters at Baltimore, and the naval base at New London, Conn., with a six man team from the Hawaiian Islands already wandering about the city.

One of the Hawaiians, Benny Akahuela, believed to be the best amateur athlete union officials by appearing in the gym without shoes or socks on his bare brown feet.

When the lack was pointed out to him he shook his head. "No shoes," he said. "No shoes."

In the excitement that followed it was discovered that Benny fights in his bare feet. Back in Hawaii he even plays football that way.

A. A. U. officials scanned the books and discovered, furthermore, that there is no rule to prevent his continuing the custom in the national championships.

One of the comparatively local entries is creating more than ordinary interest. He is Winthrop Rutherford Jr. of Alamuchy, N. J. and New York City, a youth whose inheritance has been estimated roughly at $200,000. He won his place on the New Jersey team by whipping Bobby Moss, New Jersey light heavyweight champion, in Newark last week.

Rutherford was a varsity crew man at Princeton, the heavyweight champion there, and played some football. His roommate was Alan Rutherford Stuyvesant, like himself a descendant of Peter Stuyvesant, one of the founders of New York.

A lot of fight managers would like to cross the trail of young Rutherford, whether or not he's serious about the ring business. Managing $200,000 requires help, too.

CLARK HAS STRONG LINEUP FOR PENNANT RACE IN S. S. LEAGUE

Epworth No. 1 Team Packs Punch at Bat and in Field; Hurling Good.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK Sports Editor, The Star

OF THE managers of Sunday School No. 1 league recreation baseball who have been interviewed to date all have expressed the feeling their team would win the league pennant. John Clark of the Epworth No. 1 team is no exception. There is just a slight difference between him and the others.

He is more emphatic. He insists his lineup this year will be nearly impregnable. In fact, he isn't real sure it is necessary to qualify it even that much. Other teams he says just haven't a chance.

There is no disputing the fact that Clark has a first class lineup for play this year. However, to concede him the pennant at this date is going too far. It just isn't being done!

Lineup Nearly Same

With a few exceptions, Clark will inaugurate the 1931 season against Trinity Baptists on May 12 with the same lineup as played for him last year. Wood and Wilson will divide the work behind the bat and Woods may take a turn in the outfield now and then. The presence of these two assures the success of the backstopping job.

Clarence (Zig) Snyder and Bob Gamble will take care of the mound duties. After a bad season last year Gamble has apparently returned to form. Bob has one of the fastest balls in Marion and will probably be quite capable of taking care of the pitching if the going gets too tough for Gamble. When not in the box Snyder will be on first base.

Miller Due for Job

Everett Miller, who appeared in a couple of games for Clark last year is slated for a post this season, probably at second. Miller is not the best fielder in the league but is a good batter. Bob Adams, third baseman for the Erie Yardmen last season will be at the third base post. While Adams has shown flashes of ability in the field the third base position remains somewhat of a question mark as far as the Epworth team is concerned. Dick McAninch may be used at the post later in the season when he returns from college. He will not be available until late in June and by that time Adams may have the position clinched.

Roseberry will again be at the shortstop post and there is no doubt as to his ability to play there. He is one of the best fielders in the city and is also an extremely dangerous hitter.

Fifty of Outfielders

Clark has more outfielders than he knows how to use. All together there are eight on the roster although some of them are not likely to make the grade in No. 1 league competition. Viriden, Doller and Hinkins are at present the outstanding candidates for positions.

For ability to hammer out base hits Clark's team yields to no other league entry. There is scarcely a man on the team who is not a dangerous hitter, a factor which is bound to aid Clark in his quest for the pennant.

John has what he terms a prize infield prospect in Bob Bush of Harding High. Bush possesses a lot of natural ability but it is probable lack of experience will hinder him somewhat this year. John Pickrel, John Bush and Charles Howison are other newcomers to the Clark squad this year and are expected to add a lot of strength to the team.

This tendency cost the team several ball games last year and will do the same this season if it is again present. The team needs more coordination and teamwork and less individual punch than it displayed in 1930.

OPENS IN BIG TEN

Ohio State Nine To Meet Indiana Friday, Purdue Saturday.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS COLUMBUS, O., April 23—Led by their leading hitter, Gene Strother, of Louisville, the Ohio State university baseball team will open its Western conference season Friday against Indiana at Bloomington.

On Saturday the Buckeyes will move to Lafayette Ind., where they meet Purdue.

Strother, in leading his team to three decisions in a quartet of tilts, has compiled an impressive hitting record of two triples, a double and a trio of singles in 13 trips to the plate. He is closely followed by Carl Baumgartner of Cincinnati, with four singles and a pair of doubles in 14 times at bat.

In four games the Ohio team has displayed a marked advantage over its opponents.

GENE SARAZEN—WHO IS AT THE PEAK OF HIS GOLF CAREER AT PRESENT

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 23—Pounding of hammers in a grimy garage in Brownsville, N. Y., may be heard round the world May 30.

Two German brothers—the Katz boys—are building a car for the International 500-mile automobile race which will be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on that date.

Pamie Katz, 30, stout, sturdy and suspicious, who received his first lessons in driving from the grandstand of the old Sheephead Bay track while the masters of yesterday rode to racing history, will drive the car the brothers are building.

Bernie is no novice at the wheel. He has been tooling various home built mechanical contraptions over the last few years. Victory has been his many times in these smaller events but what is more important, he weathered two major, body scarring accidents without losing the thread of nerve that is so essential to men who ride with fame on one shoulder, fortune on the other and a hope for future on the radiator of their speedy cars.

In 1920 on Decoration Day when he was leading in the feature 15-mile event of a race meeting at Maspeth, L. I., rode out of a turn at leader's gait only to find a frolicsome 14-year-old youth running across the track directly in the path of the speeding car.

Katz unhesitatingly bent his car to the inside, smashed through the wall over a four foot embankment and after turning over several times landed on the bottom with his race car as a blanket. Several ribs were broken and burns from the hot exhaust pipe left their mark.

Another time a piece of fence, dashed into the air when another driver rode through a guard rail, hit the onrushing Katz seriously crasing in his face, a scar which still remains.

"Did the accidents unnerve you?" Katz was asked.

"No," was his quiet, but positive reply. "They only gave me more confidence. In automobile racing we always expect that some time or other we will have a crackup. Before the wreck is experienced there is doubt as to whether it will weaken or strengthen the nerves. It makes some pilots more daring. Others it drives out of the sport. My accidents were of a nature which gave me more confidence in my driving. Wrecking was not as bad as I had imagined it would be."

Bernie was born in Essen, Germany, but he will race his mount in the International Sweepstakes at Indianapolis under the Stars and Stripes.

BABE RUTH LOST TO YANKS FOR 2 WEEKS WITH INJURED LEG

Severe Charleyhorse Found in Thigh After Star Collapses in Field.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS BOSTON, April 23—Babe Ruth is lost to baseball for two weeks at least, possibly a month.

Dr. Francis H. Newton of the Peter Bent Brigham hospital, where the Babe was taken yesterday after his left leg gave way while chasing a long fly, discovered a severe charleyhorse in Ruth's left thigh. Dr. Newton believed Ruth would be able to leave the hospital today, but said that he would not be able to play ball for "two weeks or a month."

Ruth's leg began bothering him during the first of the sixth inning of yesterday's Yankee-Red Sox game.

Babe doubled and slid into second, Lou Gehrig singled and Ruth pulled up lame as he swung across third. His left ankle appeared to be bothering him and play was suspended while he rubbed his leg.

As play continued, Tony Lazzeri fled to Webb. Charlie Berry, Red Sox catcher, tried to block Ruth at the plate and the Babe tripped over Berry's legs in the tangle. Ruth grinned, gained his feet, walked briskly to the Yankee bench.

The Yankee fielder's leg appeared all right as he walked to his position when the Sox came to bat.

Then Tom Oliver, Red Sox heavy hitter, belted one out into Ruth's territory. While the Babe was chasing the ball his left leg buckled and he fell to the ground. A squad of Yankees carried him from the field and he was taken to the hospital.

DERBY FAVORITES IN GOOD FORM IN EAST

Most Kentucky Classic Candidates Are Consistent Winners; Few in Luck.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LEXINGTON, Ky., April 23—While patrons of eastern tracks have watched three prominent Kentucky derby eligibles canter home in front, Kentuckians have witnessed candidates racing here finish in the luck. It may be a different story Saturday, however, when the $3,000 Camden handicap is run.

C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, Winter book favorite, and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Anchors Aweigh and Surfboard, highly regarded as contenders for the derby at Churchill Downs May 18, have won this year on eastern tracks. Another derby eligible not so highly favored by the dopesters, Walter J. Salmon's Ladder, also has won in the east.

But at the Kentucky association track here two highly touted nominees have met defeat. T. E. Mueller's Pittsburgher, which showed fine form in workouts, could do no better than fourth in his only time out, and Martha Jones, well rated filly owned by Looney and Jones, was left flat-footed at the post in the $3,000 Ashland Oaks.

Carnival Marks Opening of Galion Centennial Events

PROCEEDS FOR WELFARE WORK

Galion Armory is Scene of Gala Community Affair.

Special to The Star—Galion's Centennial carnival opened at the armory last night and also marked the first of a series of community events that will be featured incident to the city's centennial which will be observed in September.

The carnival is for the benefit of the local welfare work association and a large crowd assembled at the armory to take part in the amusements.

Music was furnished by the high school band under the direction of Hartley Snyder and also by Schrag's orchestra. A special entertainment was provided last night by eight colored boys of Crestline who presented a battle royal.

Ten booths are in operation each evening for the pleasure of the patrons.

The entertainment tonight will be presented by Page and Sutcliffe, known as "The Gloom Busters" of Wellington. They have been booked through the courtesy of E. R. Padgett of the Big Four railroad company. Clint Sloan's orchestra will furnish music throughout the evening.

Committee in Charge

The committee in charge of the carnival includes Wilbur King, general chairman, James Green, secretary, C. L. Allen, C. F. Unckrich, R. W. Marsh, Herman Plack and J. W. Winterman.

Galion Group Plans To Sell Christmas Health Seals.

GALION, April 23—Steps have been taken in this city to organize a branch of the Ohio Public Health association and a small group of people assembled at the senior high school to meet with Arthur H. German, field secretary.

Donald Townsend was named chairman, Mrs. C. H. Upson, secretary and Rev. R. R. Elmer, treasurer.

The chief aim of the local association will be to sell Christmas health seals for the fighting of tuberculosis.

Crawford County Groups To Hold Rally at Bucyrus

GALION, April 23—"Christianity in Action" is the slogan for the Crawford County Christian Endeavor rally that will be held Sunday afternoon and night at the St. John's Reformed church in Bucyrus.

The rally will open at 2:15 p. m. and the address for the afternoon will be "How Real Is God to You," delivered by Rev. Don P. Mueller of Cleveland, a former Galion resident. Music for the afternoon will be furnished by an instrumental trio from Sulphur Springs. Song service will be directed by Henry Heiser and Kenneth Rensch both of Bucyrus.

RETURNS VERDICT

Morrow County Jury Hears Suit for Money.

MT. GILEAD, April 23—A jury in the common pleas court rendered a verdict for C. C. West in the suit of C. M. Bishop against West, the trial of which was concluded here Wednesday. Bishop sued for the recovery of $1,800 allegedly due on a note and mortgage given him by West in 1921. The original note was for $2,600 and was given when West purchased a farm from Bishop in North Bloomfield township. Payments on the note were in arrears and it was claimed by West's attorneys that the note was void because of an alteration in the rate of interest.

The following jurors heard the testimony Tuesday and Wednesday: Delma Gordon, E. P. Bailey, Hugh Fogle, Mrs. Vertie Russell, George Ritzer, Earl Pinyard, Gladys Sellers, Cecil Byrd, Charles C. Clark, William Patzer and Mrs. Silas Rinehart.

Missionary Group Meets for Program

CAREY, April 23—The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Memorial Evangelical church met Tuesday night at the church, with Mrs. Henry Daymon, the president, in charge. Mrs. Gertrude Tate was in charge of the lesson study, the first chapter in the text book, "Between the Americas." She was assisted by Mrs. C. C. Carr, Mrs. Mary Dan Powell and Mrs. Virgil Green.

ASKS DAMAGES IN COURT SUIT

Crawford County Resident Sues Railroad Company for $11,150.

BUCYRUS, April 23—Damages for the sum of $11,150 is sought in a suit filed in common pleas court today by William Allen and the Ohio Farmer Insurance company against the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company.

The damages are sought for personal injuries and property damage as the result of a train-auto accident April 8, 1931 at the Crestline East street crossing.

The crossing was not safe or in good repair, causing the plaintiff's car to stall and a passenger train of the defendant company, running at a high rate of speed contrary to a village ordinance, struck the plaintiff's automobile.

Permanent injuries to the plaintiff are claimed in the petition filed by Attorney Edward J. Myers.

PLAN PROGRAM FOR VACATION SCHOOL

Marion Ministerial Group Discusses Summer Activities.

Special to The Star—KENTON, April 23—Rev. G. L. Burghard, pastor of the Church of Christ has been chosen dean of the vacation Bible school for children which will be conducted in Kenton during the summer months.

The classes are to be held in the Church of Christ. Plans for the school were completed at a meeting of the Kenton Ministerial association yesterday.

Holding of union church services during the summer months was also discussed. However, no definite arrangements were completed.

Two union meetings are to be held in May. On May 10 the Hardin County Men's chorus will appear in a program at the Church of Christ, while on May 26 the Kenton high school baccalaureate services are to be conducted in the First Methodist church with Rev. Stanley Weems, pastor of the First Presbyterian church delivering the sermon.

TO RESTOCK LAKE

Morrow County Camp To Be Cared for by State.

MT. GILEAD, April 23—Thousands of fish at Rogers Lake near Chesterville were killed this winter when they were frozen in the ice. The lake was drained last fall to clean it of weeds which were clogging the lake and only a small pool was left for the fish. The pool froze solidly during the winter and all the fish perished.

Plans for restocking the lake are being made. The lake and surrounding grounds are now used by a colored charitable organization for a summer camp for underprivileged children. Headquarters of the organization are in Columbus. Cooperation of the state fish and game department in restocking the lake will be asked.

Rogers lake was well known in central Ohio as a summer resort until taken over by the charitable organization. Since then it has been conducted privately.

Wyandot County Church Group Meets for Program.

UPPER SANDUSKY, April 23—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Pfeiffer assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gohl entertained the members of the North Salem Evangelical church at the former's home last night. The meeting was in charge of the pastor Rev. J. I. Seim. The following program was enjoyed: Vocal solo, Miss Michaela Schaefer and Miss Martina Schaefer; piano solo, Anna Loudermeyer, clarinet solo, Harold Gottfried, vocal duet, Mrs. Louis Gottfried and Susan Pfeiffer. A social hour was later held.

UPHOLD DECISION OF APPEALS COURT

Supreme Judges Confirm Ruling in Alleged Crestline Election Irregularities.

The immunity from prosecution of the late Mrs. Eleanor E. Crestline, and her sister Mrs. Newman Nelson, in connection with alleged irregularities in the Crestline municipal election, was upheld by the supreme court yesterday, according to Associated Press dispatch.

Mrs. Blake died while the case was still pending before the supreme court. Both women were convicted of election frauds.

In upholding their conviction, the supreme court affirmed the trial court's ruling that the testimony before a grand jury did not entitle them to immunity from prosecution. Had appeals court been reversed, a retrial would have been ordered.

STRUCK BY CAR

Upper Sandusky Woman Injured When Driver Fails to Stop.

UPPER SANDUSKY, April 23—Miss Mary Ellen Hutchinson, of West Johnson street was hit last night by a hit and skip driver as she was returning home from the public library. The accident occurred about 8 p. m. on the corner of Eighth street and Johnson streets. The driver was going north on Eighth street and Miss Hutchinson was crossing the street toward her home. She was found unconscious by Paul Bennett and was taken to the office of Dr. Frederick Kenan in the Bringham & Co. ambulance. No bones were broken but her face was badly cut and bruised. Miss Hutchinson remained in an unconscious condition most of the night.

MOVED TO HOSPITAL

GALION, April 23—Jacob A. Gunther was removed from the home of his son-in-law Melvin Cotschmire, four miles west of the city, Wednesday evening to the Good Samaritan hospital in the Snyder invalid coach. Mr. Gunther will undergo treatment.

MARYSVILLE, April 23—Mayor

B. E. Baker of Millford Center was named defendant in a suit for $1,000 yesterday by G. W. Butcher, a Millford Center grocer, who charges "false arrest."

Butcher was taken to the mayor's office yesterday and assessed $50 in costs for selling three cans of milk last Sunday.

The mayor has ordered all stores in the village to remain closed on Sundays. It is claimed a customer went to Butcher's home and asked to purchase three cans of milk. The grocer, it is said, sent his daughter to the store to make the sale.

Galion Group Plans To Sell Christmas Health Seals.

GALION, April 23—Steps have been taken in this city to organize a branch of the Ohio Public Health association and a small group of people assembled at the senior high school to meet with Arthur H. German, field secretary.

Donald Townsend was named chairman, Mrs. C. H. Upson, secretary and Rev. R. R. Elmer, treasurer.

The chief aim of the local association will be to sell Christmas health seals for the fighting of tuberculosis.

Stout Women Learn Easy Way To Lose 20 Pounds of Fat

Table Tells How Much Women and Girls Should Weigh

If you're fat—first remove the cause. KRUSCHEN SALT is an ideal blend of mineral salts your body organs, glands and nerves should possess to function properly.

When your vital organs fail to perform their work correctly—your bowels and kidneys can't throw off that waste material—before you realize it—you're growing hideously fat.

Take one half teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN SALT in a glass of hot water every morning—in three weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—your eyes sparkle with glorious health—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. KRUSCHEN will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALT from any leading druggist anywhere in America. (Kruschen—Adv.)

Harding Cast Rehearses
for Presentation of Play

Miss Geraldine Everett Has Leading Role in "The Swan."

Miss Geraldine Everett of Bellefontaine avenue will appear in the leading role of "The Swan," when it is presented here next Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Ohio theater by the senior class of Harding high school under the direction of Miss Lucile Foreman.
Pictured as Eva Le Gallienne as she appeared in the New York production of Molnar's famous stage play. The role is that of "Princess Alexandra."

The cast is holding rehearsals every afternoon and night at the high school and dress rehearsal will be held Tuesday night. "The Swan" is one of the most pretentious plays presented by Miss Foreman since she has been head of the dramatic department at the high school.

When Miss Le Gallienne appeared as "The Swan," she wore a coronet of jewels from the collection of the noted jeweler, Carter Earrings matched the coronet, and both were copied from the Russian crown jewels.

PLANS READY FOR BOYS' WEEK

First Event Is Track Meet at Fairgrounds Saturday.

Plans have been completed for the opening event of National Boys' Week which will be observed in Marion for one week starting Saturday. During the week the youth of Marion will be the center of attraction and the civic organizations of the city have done much planning toward making the week a success.

The opening event, the track meet at the fairgrounds Saturday morning. Only boys in the seventh and eighth grades of the city schools are eligible to compete.

Six events are listed on the program and prizes will be given to the winners of each event.

Baseball, throw, running high jump, shot put, 75 yard dash, running broad jump and one half mile relay are the events in which the boys will participate. Some of the prizes that have been donated by local merchants to be given the winners are indoor baseball bat, three pairs of tennis shoes, a pair of gym shoes and a pair of roller skates.

Mayor L. Don Jones urges all citizens to cooperate with this movement, lend their support to the organizations and business men who are sponsoring it, and encourage the boys to the end that they will be better citizens to carry on when their time shall come to take over the duties and cares of the care.

A brief schedule of the remaining events on the program for the week are as follows: Sunday, boys' day in church; Monday, marble tournament, closing date for bird house essay contest; Tuesday, boys' day in school, marble tournaments, opening of hobby and handicraft show at Y. M. C. A.; Wednesday, model airplane contest at Marion airport, hobby and handicraft show at Y. M. C. A.; Thursday, boys' health day, closing of hobby and handicraft show; Friday, vocational guidance campaign for juniors and senior boys of Harding High, and Saturday, free show at Ohio theater, harmonica contest and awards to the winners of the week.

Floyd Gibbons a peek into

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF SOHIO'S HEAT-TEMPERED GASOLINES

by FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY!

Well, boys and girls, I'm here this time to remark that there just isn't any such thing as privacy any more. And no mystery, either. For years our surgeons have been getting bolder and bolder in exploring and rearranging human innards—and now, by jiminy, the gentle art of vivisection has developed a new mechanical sideline that blew my hat kiting when I saw it being practiced the other day.

Now, I've been driving automobiles for a good many years off and on. As far back as 1904 I was involved with an old Rambler that rambled mostly when it felt good and like it, and since then I've chaffed myself over a number of parts of several continents. But the thing that happens under the hood when I throw on the switch and step on the gas—that has always been one of life's great puzzles to me. Plenty of folks have tried to clear up the mystery for me, but up to just about the present time nobody ever succeeded. I'm plain dumb when it comes to mechanics, and all thumbs when I grab hold of a monkey wrench.

Dozens of diagrams drawn to show me what the carburetor was all about and what pistons and crankshafts did—things like that never made a dent in my ignorance. I just don't educate by the picture method. But, by jingo, when an obliging scientist lets me look into the heart of an engine while it's actually chugging away, doing its stuff, then the idea does sort of percolate.

I had been told that Sohio's two new gasolines get their anti-knock quality by a general busting up of molecules under heats and pressure lots higher than any other refinery ever took a shot at. But that explanation was too deep to register. In years of newspapering, I've developed a kind of hard-boiled habit of believing what I see, and not much else. When the Sohio research scientists told me that no microscope would allow me a squint at even a good, fat molecule, I went picking at another point of their argument.

I said to them: "This idea of gasoline having anything to do with knocks is a new one on me. I've heard of carbon knocks and timing knocks and bearing knocks. What's gasoline got to do with knocking or not knocking, anyway?"

They came back with the same set of eight-dollar words that had bowled me off my pins before: "Heat-tempering changes the molecular structure of the two Sohio gasolines. It breaks up the heavy molecules into light ones, and we know that gasoline composed of light molecules makes a far better motor fuel."

The other researcher chipped in: "Just add Ethyl to Sohio X-70 and you've got the world's best anti-knock fuel. Those carbon knocks and timing knocks you mention are just old-fashioned, low brow ideas—exploded theories. The quality of the gas in your tank is the whole answer. Come along and we'll prove that to you in a jiffy."

I trailed along into another room, where he began fiddling around a big single-cylinder engine set up in front of an instrument board.

"We'll try her first with some ordinary gasoline and see what happens," he said.

Well, sir, what happened when that one-lung baby got going on old-style gasoline was the doggonedest commotion I ever heard out of a motor. It coughed and sputtered and whanged and shimmied, while the hand on an r.p.m. indicator dropped and another instrument showed the wattage go tumbling.

"The gasoline I'm using is a good regular grade but it's not heat-tempered," the Sohio man said. That's the gasoline of today. Now we'll try out our gasoline of tomorrow—heat-tempered X-70."

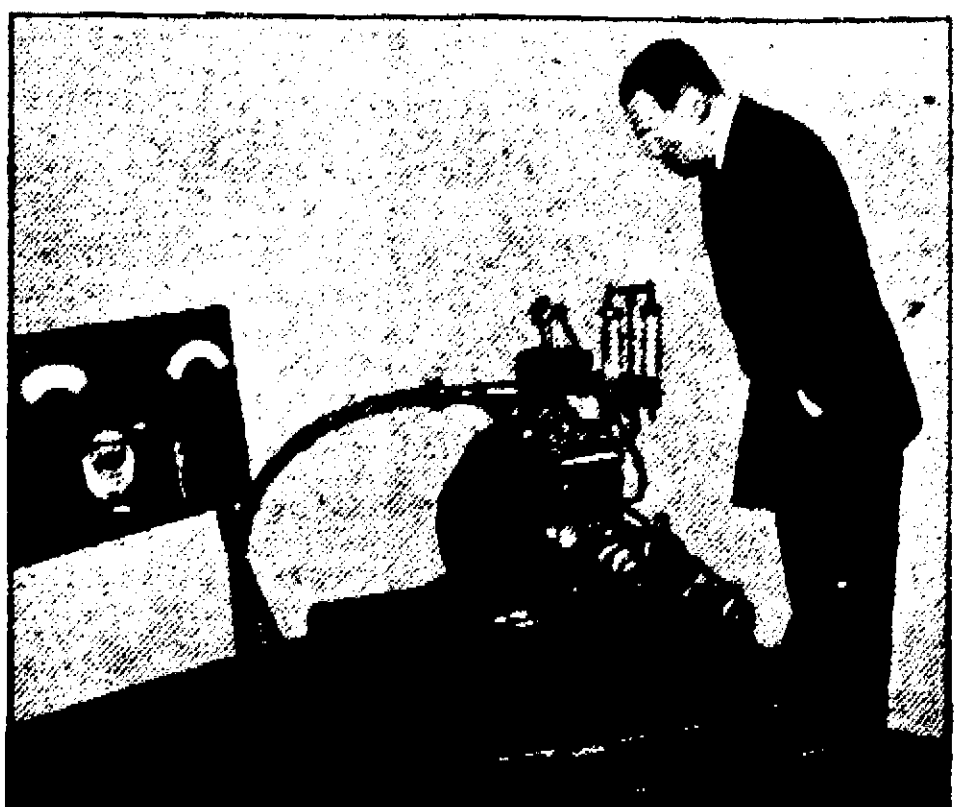

Gosh, what a difference! When the X-70 got percolating, the r.p.m. hand shot up from 720 to 920. The dings that scored the watts leaped from 270 to 500. Then the scientist switched back to the untempered gasoline and the shimmying and wheezing and knocking started all over again.

"Now I'll show you how Ethyl knocks the knock out of even a poor gasoline," he said.

And—talk about magic! That molecule-buster reached for his vest-pocket. It wasn't a cigar he was after, but a little bottle.

"This is Ethyl fluid," he explained. "Just watch—and listen."

He had taken the cork out of the bottle and waved it in front of the intake valve as he spoke. Get me right, boys and girls. He didn't actually feed that rattlety-hanging engine any of the Ethyl fluid; he just gave it a whiff of the old Ethyl aroma.

The "Knocker from Knockerville" that Floyd Gibbons saw change from a "whizzer" to a "parrot" when heat-tempered Sohio gasoline was used.

One whiff was plenty. Believe me, the engine sure knew its master's breath. The thumping and leaping suddenly stopped. The motor broke out of its frantic Charleston and glided into a waltz. Instead of that ear-splitting knock it spun its stuff with a smooth, steady, powerful chugging.

That Sohio-brow was out to surprise me—and he didn't miss. I stood there saying to myself: "Seems we've got two sure-cures here for automotive asthma. Single-handed, X-70 can do the trick—and so can Ethyl. What a peach of a fuel you'd get by adding Ethyl to X-70!"

Over on the instrument board, the indicators showed that watts and r.p.m.'s were on the rise again!

"You see," said the scientist, "The violence of the explosion isn't what gets results in an engine. It's the follow-through of the fuel on the descending piston that gives the power. It's the violent explosion that results in knock and power loss. That knock hasn't anything to do with carbon or timing or any mechanical cause. It's simply misdirected energy thumping against the cylinder wall. The heat-tempering of Sohio X-70 gives it that follow-through quality.

"Then add Ethyl fluid to heat-tempered gasoline—and there you've got the fuel that automobile designers have been waiting for and praying for these last two years."

Well, that ended the demonstration, and I certainly thought I'd seen something. But those research lads had another engine up their sleeves—the one I was raving about way back yonder. It was in another room that they kidded about as their "vivisection chamber." I mean, I thought they were kidding. But it wasn't any joke. What they had done to that second engine—by jingo, I would call it impossible if I hadn't seen it working.

The motor was another and smaller one-lunger. It had been used rough. Right in the middle of its chest a round hole had been bored, and into that hole a little glass window was set. Yes, sir, the whole interior anatomy of that baby engine was exposed to the gaze of any Peeping Tom that happened along. And believe it or not, those two scientific vivisectioners started the motor running without the slightest suggestion of putting up shutters or pulling down shades.

Floyd Gibbons inspects another of the hundreds of control valves—necessary to guard the quality of Sohio heat-tempered gasoline.

The contraption didn't look safe to me, and I was looking for a sheltered spot when the Sohio boys urged me to bend down to the window and "get an eyeful."

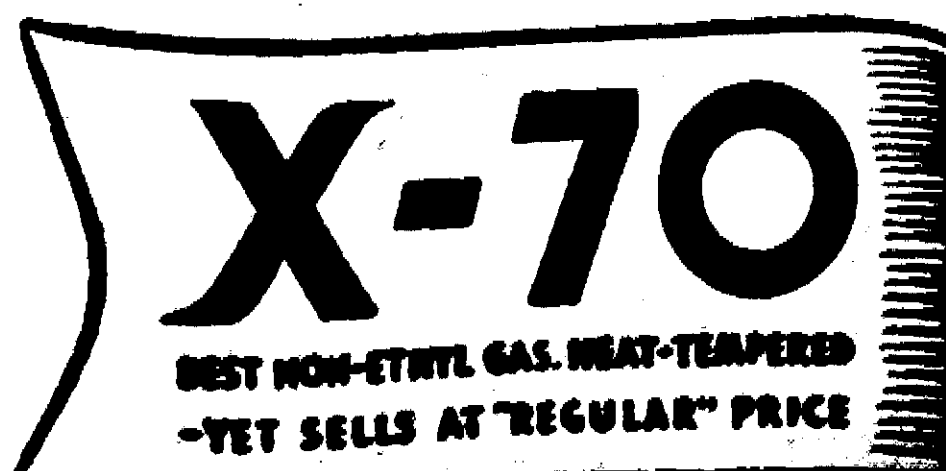

"What of?" I said. "Busted glass?"

But when they told me the glass was thick enough to stand all possible shocks, I took a chance—and now I not only know the lowdown on what makes motors mote, but I know that different gasolines have their own private ways of behaving when you shoot a spark into them.

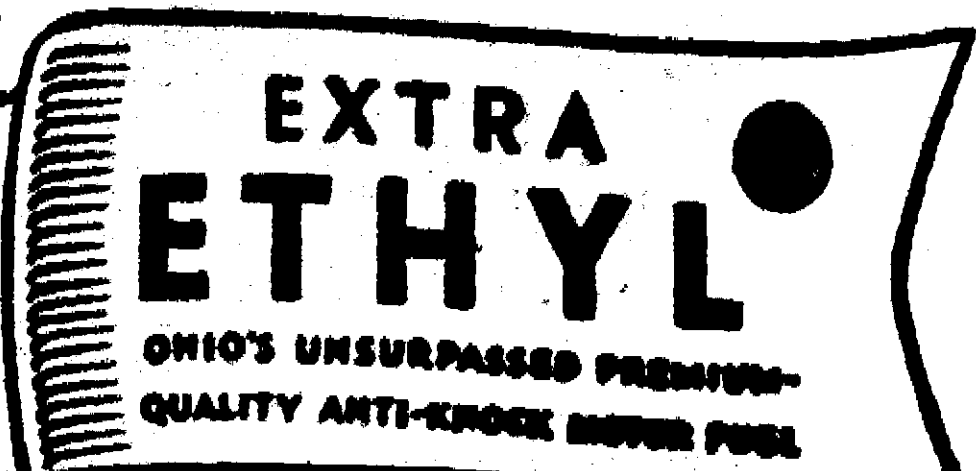

One fuel that was fed into the vivisection victim was a knocker from Knockerville. While I heard it knock, I was actually seeing it knock. It was blustery stuff that exploded with a hard white flash, and the flash whammed into the cylinder wall and socked it a whole heap harder than it socked the piston. That's what the Sohio lads had told me, and I had the evidence of my own ears to corroborate them. Then they began switching the fuel—first Knockerville, then Sohio X-70, then Sohio Ethyl. What a difference! Sohio X-70 and Sohio Extra-Ethyl weren't rowdy. They didn't bang around inside the cylinder when the spark plug—sure, I could see the plug, too!—handed them a light. They didn't explode, they burned; and instead of giving off that blinding white light they burned with a soft bluish flame, shooting everything they had to the piston.

Whoa! There goes the ball stopping another round. But just you remember, boys and girls, that I'll be dropping along next week with some more heat-tempered dops. Until then—don't knock!

Floyd Gibbons

"Mechanical Vivisection" gives
Floyd Gibbons a peek into

by FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY!

Well, boys and girls, I'm here this time to remark that there just isn't any such thing as privacy
any more. And no mystery, either. For years our surgeons have been getting bolder and bolder in exploring and rearranging human innards—and now, by jimmie, the gentle art of vivi-
section has developed a new mechanical sideline
that blew my hat kiting when I saw it being practised the other day.

Now, I've been driving automobiles for a good many years off and on. As far back as 1904 I was involved with an old Rambler that rambled mostly when it felt good and like it, and since then I've chauffed
myself over a number of parts of several continents.
But the thing that happens under the hood when I throw on the switch and step on the gas—that has always been one of life's great puzzles to me. Plenty of folks have tried to clear up the mystery for me,
but up to just about the present time nobody ever succeeded. I'm plain dumb when it comes to mechanics, and all thumbs when I grab hold of a monkey wrench.

Dozens of diagrams drawn to show me what the carburetor was all about and what pistons and crank-shafts did—things like that never made a dent in my ignorance. I just don't educate by the picture method.
But, by jingo, when an obliging scientist lets me look into the heart of an engine while it's actually chugging away, doing its stuff, then the idea does sort of percolate.

I had been told that Sohio's two new gasolines get their anti-knock quality by a general busting up of molecules under heats and pressure lots higher than any other refinery ever took a shot at. But that explanation was too deep to register. In years of newspapering, I've developed a kind of hard-boiled habit of believing what I see, and not much else. When the Sohio research scientists told me that no microscope
would allow me a squint at even a good, fat molecule,
I went picking at another point of their argument.

I said to them: "This idea of gasoline having anything to do with knocks is a new one on me. I've heard of carbon knocks and timing knocks and bearing knocks. What's gasoline got to do with knocking or not knocking, anyway?"

They came back with the same set of eight-dollar words that had bowled me off my pins before: "Heattempering changes the molecular structure of the two Sohio gasolines. It breaks up the heavy molecules into light ones, and we know that gasoline composed of light molecules makes a far better motor fuel."

The other researcher chipped in: "Just add Ethyl to Sohio X-70 and you've got the world's best anti-knock fuel. Those carbon knocks and timing knocks you mention are just old-fashioned, low brow ideas—exploded theories. The quality of the gas in your tank is the whole answer. Come along and we'll prove that to you in a jiffy."

I trailed along into another room, where he began fiddling around a big single-cylinder engine set up in front of an instrument board.

"We'll try her first with some ordinary gasoline and see what happens," he said.

Well, sir, what happened when that one-lung baby
got going on old-style gasoline was the doggonedest commotion I ever heard out of a motor. It coughed and sputtered and whanged and shimmied, while the hand on an r.p.m. indicator dropped and another instrument showed the wattage go tumbling.

"The gasoline I'm using is a good regular grade but it's not heat-tempered," the Sohio man said. That's the gasoline of today. Now we'll try out our gasoline of tomorrow—heat-tempered X-70."

Gosh, what a difference! When the X-70 got percolating, the r.p.m. hand shot up from 720 to 920. The dignus that scored the watts leaped from 270 to 500.
Then the scientist switched back to the untempered gasoline and the shimmying and wheezing and knocking started all over again.

"Now I'll show you how Ethyl knocks the knock out of even a poor gasoline," he said.

And—talk about magic! That molecule-buster reached for his vest-pocket. It wasn't a cigar he was after, but a little bottle.

"This is Ethyl fluid," he explained. "Just watch
—and listen."

He had taken the cork out of the bottle and waved
it in front of the intake valve as he spoke. Get me right, boys and girls. He didn't actually feed that

The "Knocker from Knockerville" that Floyd Gibbons saw change from a "whizzer" to a "purver" when heat-tempered Sohio gasoline was used.

rattlety-banging engine any of the Ethyl fluid; he just gave it a whiff of the old Ethyl aroma.

One whiff was plenty. Believe me, the engine sure knew its master's breath. The thumping and leaping suddenly stopped. The motor broke out of its frantic Charleston and glided into a waltz. Instead of that car-splitting knock it spun its stuff with a smooth, steady, powerful chugging.

That Sohio-brow was out to surprise me—and he didn't miss. I stood there saying to myself: "Seems we've got two sure-cures here for automotive asthma. Single-handed, X-70 can do the trick—and so can Ethyl. What a peach of a fuel you'd get by adding Ethyl to X-70!"

Over on the instrument board, the indicators showed that watts and r.p.m.'s were on the rise again!

"You see," said the scientist, "The violence of the explosion isn't what gets results in an engine. It's the follow-through of the fuel on the descending piston that gives the power. It's the violent explosion that results in knock and power loss. That knock hasn't anything to do with carbon or timing or any mechanical cause. It's simply misdirected energy thumping against the cylinder wall. The heat-tempering of Sohio X-70 gives it that follow-through quality."

"Then add Ethyl fluid to heat-tempered gasoline
—and there you've got the fuel that automobile designers have been waiting for and praying for these last two years."

Well, that ended the demonstration, and I certainly thought I'd seen something. But those research lads had another engine up their sleeves—the one I was raving about way back yonder. It was in another room that they kidded about as their "vivisection chamber." I mean, I thought they were kidding.
But it wasn't any josh. What they had done to that second engine—by jingo, I would call it impossible
if I hadn't seen it working.

The motor was another and smaller one-lunger. It had been used rough. Right in the middle of its chest
a round hole had been bored, and into that hole
a little glass window was set. Yes, sir, the whole interior anatomy of that baby engine was exposed to the gaze of any Peeping Tom that happened along.
And believe it or not, those two scientific vivisectors started the motor running without the slightest suggestion of putting up shutters or pulling down shades.

Floyd Gibbons inspects another of the hundreds of control valves
—necessary to guard the quality of Sohio heat-tempered gasoline.

The contraption didn't look safe to me, and I was looking for a sheltered spot when the Sohio boys urged me to bend down to the window and
"get an eyeful."

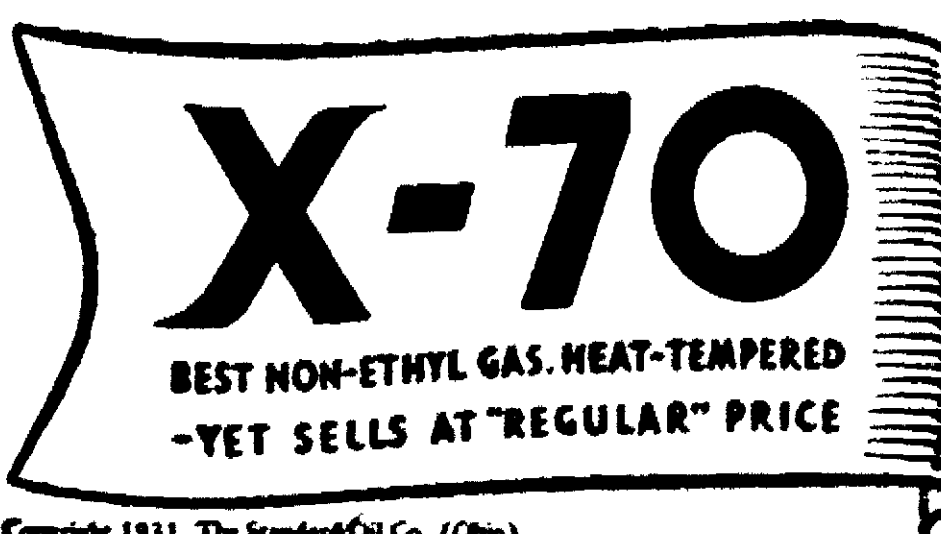

"What of?" I said. "Busted glass?"

But when they told me the glass was thick enough to stand all possible shocks, I took a chance—and now I not only know the lowdown on what makes motors mote, but I know that different gasolines
have their own private ways of behaving when you shoot a spark into them.

One fuel that was fed into the vivisection victim was a knocker from Knockerville. While I heard it knock,
I was actually seeing it knock. It was blustery stuff that exploded with a hard white flash, and the flash whammed into the cylinder wall and socked it a whole heap harder than it socked the piston. That's what the Sohio lads had told me, and I had the evidence of my own ears to corroborate them. Then they began switching the fuels—first Knockerville, then Sohio X-70, then Sohio Ethyl. What a difference! Sohio X-70 and Sohio Extra-Ethyl weren't rowdy. They didn't bang around inside the cylinder when the spark plug—sure, I could see the plug, too!—handed them a light. They didn't explode,
they burned; and instead of giving off that blinding
white light they burned with a soft bluish flame,
shooting everything they had to the piston.

Whoa! There goes the bell stopping another round.
But just you remember, boys and girls, that I'll be dropping along next week with some more heattempered dope. Until then—don't knock!

Floyd Gibbons

Daily Proverb—"Extreme remedies are never the first to be resorted to."

The Paraguayans probably staged that revolution merely to show that they were not entirely out of the present-day swim.

Not all the railroads are going into the red.
The Santa Fe now has assets of $1,272,874,938
as the result of a gain of $10,183,133 made in 1930 over 1929.

There seems to be general agreement that the inch and a quarter of rain which fell during the early hours of Wednesday was just the proper medicine for what was ailing this area.

The really disturbing phase of the arrest of that Kansas City girl, who stowed away in a plane and made the trip to Chicago, is the vaudeville, movie picture and radio aftermath
we will probably have to endure as a result of it.

Two-dollar bills to the number of 1,500,000
were issued in March to replace bills of that denomination from which a corner had been torn to remove the jinx. Who ever would imagine that there were so many poker players in the country as this would indicate?

Equal rights should mean equal responsibilities, and we note in this connection that a woman out in Los Angeles has been ordered by a court there to pay her penniless husband alimony at the rate of $65 a month.

The Hon. J. J. Shouse says that he can put 6,000,000 idle citizens at work at once if his party wins. If he has that ability and refrains from exerting it at a time such as the present, the conclusion is inevitable that
J. J. places his party above his country.

Two young women—Miss Ruth Nichols, of Rye, New York, and Miss Edith E. McCall, of Galt, Ontario, are soon to attempt soft flights across the Atlantic. Goodbye, girls, if we never see you again!

One Chicago police captain has been found to have engaged in stock deals running as high as $48,000. In these times, it doesn't seem any job at all for some officials quickly to absorb educations in matters of finance.

Report now has it that the farm board plans to dispose of its 275,000,000 bushels of wheat abroad from time to time, and the estimate is that a loss of fifty cents a bushel will be suffered. Stabilizing the market at a cost of $137,500,000 has some of the earmarks of a bonus system, or a dole, "or something," as Andy would say.

To Surpass All Other Liners.

Great Britain proposes to regain the honor
so long held by the Mauretania—the mythical
blue ribbon supposed to signify the fastest liner afloat—and finally lost to the Bremen and Europa. The 78,000-ton liner being constructed on the Clyde for the Cunard company, now known as No. 534, and her sister ship, which is to be constructed later, will not only be the largest two but the fastest two liners afloat, the Cunard people having designed them to make more than thirty knots, despite previous announcements that they were not designed for record-breaking purposes.

The 534 is now sufficiently well along in her construction to permit of the giving of her immense proportions. Heretofore about all that was known was that her length would be in excess of 1,000 feet, that her tonnage would closely approach 75,000 and that she would be capable of making about twenty-eight knots.
It is now definitely known that she will be 1,019 feet in length, almost 103 feet longer than the longest vessel at present afloat, the Majestic, and have a beam of 115 feet, almost fifteen feet greater than that of the Leviathan, the widest vessel sailing the seas. She will have eight decks above the water line, her boat deck, which is to be 650 feet long, being sev-
largest ever constructed, has already been delivered. It weighs 150 tons. Her promenade deck has a length of 720 feet. One making three circuits of this deck will travel within 270 feet of a mile. She will have in her dining saloon the largest room ever constructed on an ocean liner. She will be driven by geared turbines, the probable result of the brilliant performances of the two fast North German Lloyd liners, and her cost is to be $30,000,000.

The Mauretania for a score of years demonstrated the drawing powers of speed.
During her first season, again demonstrated the appeal of speed to the traveling public by carrying on an average about 500 passengers more to the trip than any other liner. Having enjoyed this manifest advantage, the Cunard
people propose to regain the business it assures
by once more attaining the speed laurels of the seas.

A Surprising Showing.

Despite the adverse conditions which marked 1930, better than six per cent. profit was made on their capital investment by the leading corporations of the country last year. This statement is made by Ernst & Ernst, the Cleveland accountants whose reputation is nationwide,
after an analysis of the business operations of 407 representative corporations. An twenty widely-diversified lines of industry. The exact profit percentage was 6.49 against a profit of but 1.29 per cent. in the depression year of 1921 and a profit of 11.35 per cent. in the exceptionally advantageous commercial and industrial year of 1929.

But this is far from all in this very surprising showing by the Cleveland firm of accountants.
Of the 407 corporations, 139 showed inventories
which were reduced from forty-one per cent.
of the net plant investment in 1921 to thirty-three per cent. in 1930, while the sales which represented 4.14 times the inventories in 1921 represented 5.21 times the inventories of last year, the net profits on sales being but one-half of one per cent. the former year to 5.7
in 1930.

These showings on inventories, sales and profit, the Cleveland accountants hold, indicate clearly that there has been great improvement in the management of the larger corporations of the country during the ten-year period considered, and also establishes ground for question of the rather general assumption that the big corporations are greatly over-expanded.

In a word, if we are to judge by this survey of the business operations of these 407 corporations, while the country has been given to the consideration of how business and industry
generally should be run to get the best results, the larger business and industrial corporate interests have been operating so closely in line with good business principles as to make a net profit on the capital they have invested of almost six and a half per cent.,
and this in the face of great business depression, and the unemployment and other ills
which are its inevitable aftermaths.

Up to a late hour this afternoon, not a soul
had come forward with a reason why there should be delay in executing Mr. Christ's suggestion that the members of the police department, who testified under oath that they had personal knowledge of lawbreaking and yet refrained from apprehending the lawbreakers,
be fired.

The 2,684th anniversary of the founding of Rome was this week marked by induction of 320,000 Italian youths who had undergone four years of training into the Fascist party. And do not permit anybody to persuade you that boys of eighteen who have had four years of training do not make soldiers!

A College Course in Prohibition.

A distinguishing characteristic of arguments on both sides of the prohibition issue is their shallowness, which comes about not through a lack of feeling, but through inability to grasp the many angles of the issue. Prejudice also plays a part, forbidding all but a few to look at both sides of the issue impartially. Even the most brilliant minds are hard put to it to reach a decision which is entirely satisfactory to them.

The "student of prohibition" has not yet appeared to take a place beside the student of the tariff, the student of the judiciary, the economic expert and the others in the constantly-growing specialist group. But chances are that he will, particularly if the prohibition problem remains uninvolved as long as some forecasters say.

A hint of what may happen eventually is found in an announcement from Ohio Wesleyan university that prohibition will be the subject of a new course in the political science department next fall. It is planned to present
both sides of the issue by speakers of repute,
and the course will reach a climax in a two-
day conference attended by students, the university faculty, men and women prominent in public life, and the general public.

Such an announcement is a wet blanket on the cherished hopes of those who imagine that the prohibition problem may be settled by a wave of the hand, but the possibility of prohibition becoming as much of a national issue
as the tariff, for instance, are too real to be overlooked.

The Canadian authorities have apprehended
an American, held by them to be the owner of the $125,000 rum cargo seized at Beville, Texas, and are considering the plan of deporting him as an undesirable alien back to this country. That, of course, is playing the game with us, but we certainly have more citizens of his stamp than we seemingly are able to handle, as it is.

The last electric railway line in the state of Michigan passed out of existence today,
adding another link to the long chain of evidence that electric lines can not maintain their own rights-of-way and compete with bus systems operated over public highways.

The captain of the French liner, La Fayette,
one day this week notified the customs inspectors in New York that the failure of a mechanical ventilator in the engine-room of his vessel to work had led to the discovery of thirty-two bags containing 257 bottles of whisky hidden therein. When commanders of foreign vessels cooperate in this way, it rather goes to show that the managements of foreign shipping lines have undergone a change of heart.

Former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, threatens to trail J. J. Shouse to tell what he thinks of the leadership of the Democratic national organization. What can be Thomas' idea in this working to popularize
J. J. and John J. Raskob, especially when he holds himself out as the arch enemy of the latter?

As the result of funds having been made available, the acreage planted in trees by the forest service has gradually increased from 5,500 in 1921 and the expectation is that the acreage this year will be 25,000. It's a good showing, as such showings go, but the forest service will have to get a jump on itself if it expects to have the tree planting keep pace with the woodman's ax.

A BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Editorial Opinion.

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

It has been proposed that the house go outside the house membership for the presiding officer who will succeed the late Mr. Longworth. The appointment of a former president has been suggested by Representative

This can not be said to be the best way out of the present difficulty. Such procedure would seem rather to suggest that real patriotism was at a discount in the nation, and that its public partisan servants were not to be trusted in the management of the country's affairs.

It is true that this might be done, as the former president has agreed, under legal sanction. But the traditions of this government have made of the speaker of the house something more than an individual of prominence,
a partisan leader. He looms in the political historical perspective as one who is experienced and resourceful, and many such men are excluded in the membership of the house. These men are alert, intimately connected with imminent affairs. They know the ropes, so to speak.

In the contemplation of this office the framers of the government never intended that the speaker of the house should be merely a figurehead, divorced from actual official functioning in connection with his office. Former President Coolidge has explained all this.

To go outside the house membership would be a defiance of tradition, of custom and usage, if not a frank confession of a weakness of our democratic system.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE WALKER REPLY.

The mayor's reply to the charges filed against him makes excellent repartee. It calls names expertly and effectively. If the issue before the governor is to be decided in favor of the side which is the smartest face slapper
and shin kicker, the decision goes easily to Mr. Walker.

Fortunately for the city, the issue has already been broadened far beyond the possibility of its being limited to any question of personality. When the charges—extremely general in their nature—were preferred by Rabbi Wise and Mr. Holmes we expressed the opinion that they were premature. Thanks to the ill-advised attempts to impugn the charges helped to form public opinion and lead the legislature to action. But they did not go to the root of the evils in the city administration, and now that the city-wide investigation is under way they can best be added to the general agenda lying before Judge Seabury.

We think it important to repeat that the problem is far larger than any individual. Fortunately every indication points to the fact that Judge Seabury sees the inquiry in its true proportions and plans to pursue it patiently, thoroughly, impartially, letting the fate of individuals be what it may. Not the destruction of this city official or that, but the construction of a new and honest era in the city's rule is the goal.

The mayor prefers to ignore these truths of the situation. He insists upon fighting with the weapons with which he is most adept.
Thanks to the sure-grinding wheels of the Seabury investigation, the citizens of New York can read his flippancies with equanimity.—New York Herald Tribune.

Dinner Stories.

"You avoid the vein of humor you once cultivated in your speeches."
"Comedians are valuable these days," answered Senator Sorghum. "I don't intend sideration as a government salary."

"So Benny got out of a job and took to selling apples on the sidewalk."
"Yes, but like the other chaps, Benny cooked his apples and stuck up the sign 'Fire Sale.'"
"You are very deferential toward a traffic policeman."
"I try to show proper respect for superior wisdom," said Mr. Chuggins. "He is one of the few men who knows all the driving regulations as fast as they happen."

Ventilation Essential.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

With increased population new problems of health have arisen. These have been added to
by the tendency to concentrate in large cities and great buildings. One of the most pressing of these problems is that of ventilation.

The importance of fresh air has long been appreciated. The sufferings in the Black Hole of Calcutta emphasize this necessity.

When we inhale we take in air that is laden with oxygen. Oxygen is essential to the body.
Without oxygen we can not thrive.

When we breathe out we exhale carbon dioxide.
This is the residue and waste after the oxygen has been utilized by the body. If there is no source of fresh air, the atmosphere will soon become heavy with carbon dioxide.

It has been shown that the carbon dioxide
content of the air can reach two per cent.
without causing serious damage. When increased beyond this point it is dangerous.
Asphyxiation may occur where there is a marked decrease in the available oxygen.

In addition to the necessity of fresh air, proper ventilation requires the air to be at a certain temperature. The moisture content of the air is of vital importance. This has been proved by repeated observations in schools
where studies have been made.

Proper ventilation then, depends on fresh air, correct room temperature, and the right degree of humidity. The air of the room should be kept in motion and the waste gases removed.

Where these conditions are maintained,
school children are less susceptible to colds and infections. They appear brighter. They take greater interest in their school work and make greater strides in education.

Bad air produces drowsiness, headache, dizziness and sickness at the stomach. Continued exposure to bad air causes loss of appetite, anemia and lack of vitality.

The temperature of a room should be evenly maintained. The proper degree depends on how active the work is. It varies from sixty-five to seventy-two degrees.

Excessive heat produces dryness of the air.
This should be avoided. In modern homes,
where steam is utilized, it is best to have a pan of water near each radiator. Evaporation of the water helps to bring about proper humidity. Where coal stoves or gas heaters are used the same simple procedure should be employed. I strongly advise this method of refreshing the air in your home.

Do not hesitate to keep your windows open.
A stuffy, overheated room causes lowered resistance. Such air helps the germs to spread disease.

Our grandparents believed night air dangerous. Fortunately, this belief has been generally discarded, although some persons still hesitate about having open windows at night. You will benefit greatly by training yourself and your children to sleep with the windows wide open. When you become accustomed to it, this procedure can be followed all during the year.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

M.R.B. Q.—What causes nightmares?
A.—This may be due to some intestinal disturbance or nervousness.

D.P. Q.—What causes frequent nose bleeds?
A.—What causes the head to hurt or pain?
The trouble seems to be in the back of the head?

A.—This may be due to catarrh or to a possible growth or obstruction in the nose. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—This may be due to neuralgia caused by infection. Have the nose and throat examined and also make sure that the blood pressure is normal.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Zeppelin, Biological Sport.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Fortunate indeed is that man who invents something of large and permanent value to mankind. For his name is sure to go down to posterity as a benefactor of the human race. History records with gratitude the deeds of those who contribute to the progress of civilization, who further the progress of the people in the upward climb toward higher attainments. Such a man is Ferdinand von Zeppelin, whose name is forever linked with that of the dirigible balloon.

Ferdinand von Zepelin was born on July 8, 1838, in his grandparents' home on the "Island" in the Lake of Constance. Little or nothing in his heredity is at all revelative of his genius as an inventor. His ancestors appear in the records of the village of Zepelin, in Mecklenburg, North Germany, as early as 1286. Although the spelling of the town is unchanged
to this day, his family for many centuries have spelled their name with two p's. Both the father and grandfather of Ferdinand von Zeppelin played important roles in the political and diplomatic life of Wurttemberg, but neither showed the faintest trace of scientific or inventive genius. Nor do we find any scientific propensity in the maternal line, the Macsires,
who were French emigres living in Constance.
Ferdinand was a "sport" in the biological sense, the talents of his ancestors finding in him brilliant expansion in the field of invention.

A life of distinction in the army seemed his predetermined career. After receiving an excellent preparatory training, he entered the War
academy at Ludwigsburg, whence he was graduated in 1857. Instead of reveling in the gay life of a crack regiment, to which he belonged,
he asked permission to be transferred to the University of Tubingen for the purpose of studying engineering. The year he spent here confirmed in him tastes for engineering and mechanical design and foreshadowed his future career.

It is a matter of interest that he visited the United States during the Civil war and was attached to the Union armies as a military observer. Even at this time, he displayed great interest in ballooning and made one historic ascent in a captive balloon at Fort Snelling.
After his return to Germany he saw service in the army for years, winning medals and distinction for his bravery and daring exploits.
As Margaret Goldsmith says in the interesting biography of the famous inventor: During the siege of Paris, Zepelin was attached to the German general staff headquarters stationed at Villiers, very near Paris.

This assignment at headquarters was of tremendous importance to his whole future career, because, at Villiers, he was in a position to observe closely the use the French made of balloons during the siege. Zepelin carried his field glasses, attached round his shoulders
by a strap, day and night. He watched practically every balloon which left the beleaguered
city bringing messages to the outside world.
The balloons were not sent up unless the wind
was favorable, but even so, if the wind changed suddenly, they were often driven into the German lines or far off in the wrong direction. The element of luck in the failure or success of a balloon flight irritated him profoundly. His scientific mind revolted against such an irrational procedure.

Accordingly he resolved to devote the remainder of his life, which he did, to making a military dirigible balloon.—Copyright, 1931, by

Why No Mary-Easter County.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Ashtabula county was authorized and defined as to boundaries by act of the second legislature of the state, passed October 10, 1807,
but for some reason is not organized as a county until January 22, 1811. Being the first county to be entered by the immigrants coming out to the New Connecticut in large numbers along the shore of the lake. It must have had at the time a considerable population that was increasing each year. There must have been some reason, therefore, for the delay.

It is said to have been due to a controversy over the name of the county. The settlers had already denominated the district as Ashtabula,
an Algonquin Indian name, and the majority wish to have the name retained. But Moses Cleveland was ambitious to have his family further honored in the nomenclature of the Reserve, and being influential there, he was insisting that the county be called Mary-Easter, that being the name of his daughter, and with good prospects of success. He furnished the wine for several parties given under the auspices of his engineers working in that part of the Reserve, and if they could have decided it, Mary-Easter the name of the county would be, but the legislature had the authority to fix the name and Moses does not seem to have been much of a politician.

Ashtabula means in the Algonquin, river of many fish, just as Conneaut does in the Iroquois. Both rivers were said to have been abundantly supplied with fish when the white man came.

A man named King tried to have a town in Ashtabula named in his honor by a plentiful supply of liquor to the citizens, with better success. It is known as Kingsville now as the result of his furnishing two dollars' worth of whisky to the people of the town which was formerly known as Forbesville, probably after its founder, Forbes.

Most Decidedly So
Modern criminals, says an eminent English

That "It" Again.
Many might have become great if circumstances had only compelled them to do what they thought they couldn't.—St. Louis Globe-

Merely a Matter of Division.
Of course, prohibition is not political. It just divides the population into parties, the parties into factions, the country into sections.—Washington Post.

A Health Suggestion.
No cure for Jamaica ginger paralysis can be found. In which case wisdom suggests changing to some other mild drink, perhaps

He Could Establish That Easily.
It seems possible that one frequent reply to court questions asked of Mayor Walker may prove to be: "I was away at the time."
—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Went Part Way.
Women prohibitionists, meeting in Washington, D. C., followed the same general procedure as do the repealers. They indorsed part of ington when their business is done there, unless they are afraid to go home.—Detroit Free

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, April 23—Old World visit-usually select Washington square as one of the most idyllic spots on Manhattan island, preserving the mellowness of its years without shabbiness. Among its diffusing and generous shades there is still the glow of old grandeur.
In the tiny square remains the wooden bandstand of the small town. If the weather is seasonable weekly concerts are held. Rich benches fill with bareheaded mothers and their green-dreaming old men and hand-holding lovers. New York's confusion seems far away.

Yet only a few steps through the arch Stanford White designed and there is the cluster of lower Fifth avenue. Lining the square are red brick homes with wrought iron fences enclosing patches of green and offering that clean lined residential solidity of the smaller city.

Vine-clad porches give a rosy vigor to the square. There are freckled curtains, gaunt black and crepuscular basement dining-rooms.
Cats nap in windows and dogs laze on lawns.
The square was the pivotal point of New York buckaroo aristocracy as early as 1840, and never lost that sedate look.

Henry James once wrote while living in the square: "There is an established repose not found in other quarters. The square has a riper, richer, more honorable look than any of the ramifications of the longitudinal thoroughfare—the look of having had something of social history."

Aside from James, Edith Wharton lived there and wrote many of her most enduring pages. O. Henry once resided there. As did Mark Twain and later Morris Merton Lyon, Theodore Dreiser, Will Irwin, Samuel Hopkins Adams, Samuel Merwin, Sinclair Lewis and many others.

Washington square is its loveliest in the encircling dusk when streets are deserted and the flame of the Judson cross sweeps the heavens. Children fly down the pavements to meet returning

Marion Lodge To Push Member for State Post.

T. E. Bolander will be named a candidate to the office of grand scribe of the grand encampment of Ohio of the I. O. O. F. lodge, by Maripah Encampment No. 50. It was decided at a meeting Tuesday night. The office of grand scribe was left vacant a month ago by the death of Frank C. Garrett of Dayton. Arrangements are progressing for a celebration May 19 of the eightieth anniversary of the founding of Maripah encampment, a committee in charge announced. A. G. Fuller of Findlay, grand patriarch of the grand encampment, will be the principal speaker. A meeting will be held May 5.

HONOR TEACHER

MORRAL, April 23—Members of the Lotus Sunday school class, sponsored a birthday surprise honoring Mrs. W. A. Stewart, teacher of the class at her home at Brush Ridge Monday night. Lunch was served.

Peggy Norris, 30, of Jefferson County, Denver, Colo., has been the means of Sheriff James C. Biggens, Jr., setting out to prepare a course in tree-climbing for his deputies. When the sheriff's deputies raided the Norris ranch in quest of a still, Peggy did a Lady Tarzan and climbed a tree. She proved an excellent tree-climber for many hours, with the officers of the law using every known persuasive argument to induce her to come down. She eventually did and, with her two assistants, later paid a fine of $200.
